REPORT.

CLASSMATES, — Such information as I have been able to extort from you is given in the following pages. The object of this report is not, as I understand it, merely to chronicle striking events, but to let the Class know what each one has been doing in the past three years, and to keep up that interest in one another which was supposed to have been created by a course of four years of college life together. I say this because, in answering the circular, many of you have modestly declined saying any thing about your doings, giving one the impression that you left college with the expectation of springing at once to the head of your professions, or of becoming merchant princes, and, having fallen a little short of this, you think there is “nothing worth mentioning.” Others seem to have supposed that the only object of interest was whether they had been married or not, and have been content with responding “not married,” which I dare say their unfortunate fellow-classmates (I don’t mean by this the married ones) will be glad to learn ; but certainly this is but a small bit of information, and is easily presumed when nothing is heard to the contrary. However, I hope that the few facts that have been elicited will serve to let each one know something about the other, and that in the future you will be a little more communicative.

The following of our Classmates I have not heard from personally since graduation ; and I trust, that when this meets their eyes, they will repent of their silence, and use their pens to the edification of the rest of us : Hickox, Straw, and Tyler. Of those who were not graduated, there are a great many who have not been heard from, as will be seen ; but they are too numerous to mention. I shall be greatly obliged to any one who will send me any information of them. I have ventured to give, however, such facts as I could pick up about them ; and, if rumor and imagination has led me astray, the fault is their own.

After all this, I should do wrong not to acknowledge, as I do with pleasure, the promptness and kindness with which the majority of the Class have responded to my demands.

The report was intended to include all those who were ever in the Class ; but I have kept distinct those who left College before graduation, to prevent any confusion. With the exception of a few details, it is supposed to be dated June 1, 1875.

The history of the Class as a Class for the past three years is brief. Such meetings as have been held are given in the last part of the report. The only other matter of great importance has been the presentation of the "Class-Cradle." The fortunate youth was born Dec. 13, 1873, and immediately put in his claim, which was found to be uncontested ; and accordingly measures were immediately taken to honor him as the first descendant of the Class should be honored. He declined waiting for a cradle proper ; so the next best thing was to give him an emblematic cradle, which consisted of a fruit or cake dish of silver in the shape of a cradle, and engraved on one end, so that no one should mistake it for a boat, —

"CLASS-CRADLE, 1872."

And on the other, —

"PRESENTED TO GEORGE COWING GIBSON, Dec. 13, 1873."

the time at which it should have been presented ; but unfortunately the presentation, which was entirely informal, did not take place until April, 1874.

The only other descendant of the graduates is Robert Lee Frost ; but there are six others who it is hoped will some day take an interest in the Class of 1872.

The condition of the Class Fund, which is given later on, is, I think, quite satisfactory, and will enable us, I hope, in the course of another three years to have our Triennial Dinner free of expense to the Class.

Thus far there have been ten marriages amongst the graduates, and seven amongst the other members of the Class, so far as I have learned. The number of deaths in the Class has been four : James Page Richardson, who died of typhoid fever at Portland, Sept. 8, 1872; David Heald, Jr., who died in Somerville, Sept. 25, 1873, of the same fever; Francis Eugene Whitney, of consumption, at Torquay, England, Nov. 24, 1873; and Charles Milton Weed, at Stamford, Conn., April 27, 1875.

Please remember that my future address will be P.O. Box 203, Brookline, Mass., and that I shall always be happy to hear from you. Don't let the office degenerate into a mere sinecure.

ALBERT L. LINCOLN, JR.,
Class Secretary.

RUSSELL, EDWARD BALDWIN. Immediately after graduation went to Europe, where he remained about a year, chiefly in Germany and France, studying the languages of those countries; on his return went into business at once with his father, in the mercantile agency, 51 State Street, Boston, where he has since remained, though compelled to go South last March on account of ill-health; in the fall of 1874 had begun to attend lectures at the Boston Law School, but was obliged by his ill-health to give these up. Residence, Savin Hill, Mass.

RUSSELL, ROBERT SHAW. Soon after graduation entered the East India house of William Perkins & Co., 30 Central Street, Boston, where he remained till October, 1874, when he set out for a journey to China, where he still is. Residence, No. 1 Louisburg Square, Boston.

SAWYER, FRANK HALLER. In September, after graduation, entered the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, where he remained through one course of lectures; in the fall of 1873 entered the Harvard Medical School, but, finding that the course there required more time than he felt like giving to study then, finally determined to go West; was married to Julia M. Jordan Dec. 12, 1873, in Boston, and in February, 1874, started for San Francisco; spent some time there, writing for the papers, and in May went to Kirby, Oregon, where he remained about a month, but left at the end of that time, feeling that Kirby was too far from civilization to be congenial; returning to San Francisco, he became a reporter upon the "Chronicle;" becoming dissatisfied, determined to return to the East, and reached home in November, 1874; was soon offered a position in the office of the Hamilton Manufacturing Co., of Lowell, which he accepted and holds still, residing in the same city.

SEVERANCE, PIERRE CLARKE. Went into the window and plate-glass business with Lambert Brothers, of Boston, Oct. 28, 1872, and has continued with them since. Residence, Otis Place, Boston, Mass.

SHELDON, EDWARD STEVENS. Remained in Cambridge after graduation, having received an appointment as proctor in the College; during the academic year of 1872-73 taught a private pupil; was also instructor in Greek in a young ladies' school on Newbury Street, Boston, and during the latter half of the year supplied Mr. Nash's place in the College, in Italian and Spanish; Dec. 31, 1873, resigned his position as proctor, having received a Parker Fellowship; went to Berlin in January, 1874, where he remained a little more than a year; is at present in Leipzig, Germany.

SHERBURNE, EDWARD CHILD. In July, after graduation, sailed for Europe, where he remained three months; on his return went into his father's store, staying with him until the latter part of January, 1873; in March, 1873, went into the dry-goods commission business with W. L. Battles, under the firm of Battles & Sherburne; on March 1, 1875, this firm was dissolved, and at the same time he entered into partnership with his brother, F. S. Sherburne, continuing the same business at 14 Bedford Street, Boston; was married to Emma F. Dimick, of Somerville, at Cambridge, Oct. 21, 1873. Residence, 6 & 7 Bowdoin Square, Boston.

SMITH, HENRY Sr. JOHN. Immediately after graduation sailed for Europe, and spent a little more than a year in travel; the following year he spent in Portland, studying more or less; in the fall of 1874 went to Berlin, Prussia, where he has since been studying history and the German language. Residence, 35 Spring Street, Portland, Me.

STONE, PHILIP SIDNEY. In the fall of 1872 entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained a year; in December, 1873, went into the office of Morse, Stone, & Greenough, Boston, as a student, but in the fall of 1874 rejoined the Law School; finding an office more to his taste, he left the School in November, and again entered the office above; was obliged to leave in March, on account of business which required his attendance in the West; having despatched this, he returned to Cambridge, where he still is. Residence, Phillips Place, Cambridge.

STONE, RALPH. Since graduation has been engaged in teaching: for the first year at Calais, Me., where he had charge of the High School; for the last two years in private schools in Buffalo, N. Y.; is at present in the classical school of Mr. Briggs in that city.

Residence, 131 West Fifty-Sixth Street, New York City.

WATERS, THOMAS FRANKLIN. Entered the Theological Seminary, Andover, Mass., in September, 1872, where he has since remained, but will be graduated this July. Residence, Salem, Mass.

WEED, CHARLES MILTON. [I had not heard from Weed since graduation; for the facts concerning him since that time we are indebted to Bro. G. H. Gould; I have not yet learned the address of Weed's parents. A. L. L.] — Was born May 11, 1849, in Stamford, Conn.; his father is Charles Albert Weed, formerly proprietor and publisher of the "New Orleans Times," a paper founded by him; his mother's maiden name was Abigail Younsberry. Weed received his final preparation for College at Mr. Fay's school in Newport, R. I.; during the Freshman and Sophomore years he roomed with Clarence Robinson, the first year in Stoughton, 19, the second in Massachusetts, 12; the last two years of his course he roomed with G. H. Gould, in Holworthy, 17; he was a member of the Institute of 1770, and the Hasty Pudding Club; before leaving College he had some idea of going into journalism; but after graduation went to New Orleans, and thence to Port Simon, the terminus of the railroad in Costa Rica; was clerk for a few months in the office of the railroad, then went into the shipping trade, sending up goods from the islands of the Caribbean Sea; in this he was quite successful, until attacked by the Chagres fever, which obliged him to come North; he recovered from the fever at Stamford, and was just beginning the study of medicine with a physician in Stamford, when he was seized by his final illness; he died April 27, 1875. Action will be taken by the Class on Commencement Day.

WELD, FRANCIS MINOT. Has been in active business since graduation, and at present is treasurer of the Newton Cotton Mills. Residence, Boston, Mass.

H. Dyer, in the coal business, in which he has since remained. Residence, 145 Oak Street, Chicago.

WHITE, MOSES PERKINS. In the fall of 1872 was appointed a proctor in the College, and at the same time entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained a year, teaching a private pupil at the same time; the following year he spent almost exclusively in teaching private pupils, and in the fall of 1874 joined the Law School again, where he has since remained, continuing his teaching also.

WHITNEY, FRANCIS EUGENE. Was born Sept. 27, 1849, at Stow, Mass.; his father was Isaac Whitney, a farmer in that town; his mother's name before marriage was Marcia Jane Barclay. Whitney early discovered a taste for books and study, and at the age of fifteen, by the advice of S. W. Hale, a graduate of Harvard, went to Phillips Exeter Academy; he remained here four years, and then joined the Class at the beginning of the Sophomore year; he roomed with Bro. White throughout his college course, at first in Stoughton, 30, and for the last two years in Stoughton, 10; he was a member of the Everett Athenæum, and of the II H Society; in his college course he devoted himself largely to the languages, having a particular fondness for Greek, and when graduated received honors in the classics: he also had a great love for music, to which he gave much time while in College. He left College with the idea of teaching or of going into business, but settled upon the former, and for a year held the position of master at De Veaux College, Suspension Bridge, N. Y., with great credit to himself, and winning by his kindness and courtesy the love and respect of both masters and students. At the end of the year he determined to go abroad, hoping that he might improve his health, which had not been good since his Junior year in College; the voyage proved too severe, and he died of consumption soon after landing, at Torquay, England, Nov. 24, 1873, alone, and in the midst of strangers, who treated him kindly to the end. In memory of him the masters and pupils of De Veaux erected a brass altar cross in their chapel, Whitsunday, 1874. Resolutions upon his death were passed by the Class, Commencement, 1874, which can be seen in the Class Book.

WILLIAMS, CHARLES AMORY. In September, 1872, began the study of law in the office of his brother, Moses Williams, Jr., Boston, attending lectures at the same time at the Boston Law School; in September, 1873, was admitted to the bar, and since that time has been practising law in Boston. Residence, Brookline, Mass.

THE CLASS FUNDS.

The funds of the Class are two : one called the Class Fund proper, which was founded for the purpose of supplying an income to defray the current expenses of the Class, such as advertising, Commencement meetings, Class reports, and, when the income is sufficiently large, the Triennial Dinner. The total amount subscribed to this fund is $4,050.00, of which $2,115.00 have already been paid in, $315.00 less than there should be if the annual instalment of $810.00 had been regularly paid ; but on some of the subscriptions nothing has as yet been received, while others have been paid in full. The subscription list is still open, and I shall be happy to add the names of any desiring to share the burdens of the Class, which it seems to me should be shared more equally ; besides the regular subscriptions, the Secretary has received occasional donations from members of the Class, amounting in the whole to $30.00 ; so that the total sum contributed thus far is $2,145.00. The names of the regular subscribers are printed below.

The second fund is called the Class Subscription Fund, and is devoted entirely to the College ; it was started with the view of furnishing the College with a fund the income of which it could use for any purpose except the erection and repair of buildings. Thus far $100,000.00 have been paid to the College, and subscriptions are now paid over as often as they amount to $20,000.00. The total amount subscribed by the Class to this fund is $4,625.00, payable in ten years by annual instalments : the annual instalment, therefore, is $462.50. There is only one of the original subscriptions on which nothing has been paid, one has been paid in full, and one is to be paid in five years ; the total sum paid over by the Secretary to the treasurer of the fund up to June 1, 1875, was $1,177.90, of which $60.00 were contributed outside of the regular subscription.

The following members of the Class are regular subscribers to both funds : —

Almy.	Holland.
Altrocchi.	Hulme.
Belmont.	Lawrence.
Brown, H.	Lord, A.
Cobb.	Muhlenberg.
Elliot.	Pousland.
Fisher.	Rand.
Gambrill.	Rumsey.
Gibson.	Russell, C. H.
Gould, G. H.	Smith.
Gray.	Tyler.
Hapgood.	Williams.

The following are subscribers to the Class Fund only : —

Babbitt.	Russell, R. S.
Bird.	Sherburne, E. C.
Callender.	Tilden.
Currier.	Tower, G. H.
Hutchins.	Tucker.
Kidder.	West.
Russell, E. B.

The following are subscribers to the Class Subscription Fund only : —

Burgess, A.	Hall, F. R.
Burgess, W.	Straw.
Cram.	Tower, C.
Fiske.	Weld.
Guild.

It will thus be seen that less than half the Class are subscribers to these funds.

A statement of the receipts, expenditures, and investments will be found on the following pages.

REPORTS OF MEETINGS.

FIRST MEETING, Sept. 14, 1872.

This meeting was held at the Parker House, Boston, to take action on the death of our classmate James Page Richardson. It was called to order at 12 M. by the Secretary, who occupied the chair. Bros. Callender, Rand, and R. S. Hall were then appointed to prepare resolutions,* which were afterwards unanimously adopted, and, in accordance with one of them, were printed in the "Boston Daily Advertiser" and the "Portland Press," and a copy of them sent by the Secretary to the parents of the deceased.

Adjourned 12.45 P.M.

A. L. LINCOLN, JR., Secretary.

SECOND MEETING, June 25, 1873.

This meeting was held at Holworthy 14, and was called to order at 12.30 P.M. Bro. Gray was elected chairman.

The Secretary then read his report for the year, including the report of the meeting held Sept. 14, 1872, showing the condition of the Class funds, and giving such of the marriages as he had been able to hear of during the year, which was accepted.

The question was then raised as to what action should be taken upon the death of classmates; and after some discussion it was voted unanimously to adopt the following resolution, previously passed by the Class of 1870:—

Whereas, in the opinion of this meeting the usual method of drawing up and publishing resolutions as a token of respect to the memory of classmates is not only unsatisfactory in itself, but poorly expresses the true sentiment of the Class, and is attended with an undesirable publicity, —

Resolved, That, upon the death of any member of the Class, the Secretary shall be authorized to request one or more of the intimate friends of the deceased to draw up appropriate resolutions, which, with a short sketch of his life, shall be presented to the Class at its next regular meeting. On acceptance, a copy shall be sent to the family; but the usual plan of putting them into public print shall be dispensed with.

Adjourned.

A. L. LINCOLN, JR., Secretary.

* These resolutions, and all others adopted on like occasions, can be seen, by any one so desiring, in the Class-Book. — A. L. L.

THIRD MEETING, June 24, 1874.

This meeting was held at Holworthy 13, and was called to order at 11.30 A.M. Bro. Severance was elected chairman. The Secretary's report of the previous meeting was read and accepted, and also the report showing the condition of the Class funds. There had been two deaths in the Class during the year, — those of David Heald, Jr., and Francis Eugene Whitney. Bros. White, Rand, and A. W. Gould had been previously requested to draw up resolutions in respect to Bro. Whitney ; and these, with a sketch of his life prepared by the Secretary, were submitted to the Class ; the resolutions were unanimously adopted, and a copy afterwards sent to his mother.

Bros. Rand, White, and Hovey were then appointed to draw up resolutions to the memory of Bro. Heald, a sketch of whose life was also read by the Secretary ; the resolutions were adopted as drawn, and a copy afterwards sent to Heald's family.

A report was also made by the Secretary of the action taken by him in regard to the Class Cradle, which was approved and accepted.

Adjourned.

A. L. LINCOLN, JR., Secretary.
